DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Cooling building is a modern 20th century store building. Its facade is constructed of brick and the sidewalls of concrete block. On the first story is a central door flanked by two large plate glass windows, with a door to the second floor apartment on the south side of the facade. An aluminum awning extends from the cornice above the windows.

On the second story are two pairs of windows with one over one sash. The building has a hip roof covered with asphalt roofing.

Mr. Walter Cooling constructed the building after his acquisition of the property in 1955.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This property at one time belonged to the Odd Fellows Lodge. In 1955, Walter Cooling bought the old building and replaced it with this brick store and apartment building. At one time there was a garage here, operated by the Titters. Before the garage, there was a wagon shop and a blacksmith's shop in the alley in back. As in most small towns, wagon shops evolved into car agencies and garages. This has significance as a commercial property, and was a prime location when Bohemia Avenue was the main street in town.
